II. — ARCHITRAVES

Les scènes et légendes des architraves se rapportent en grande partie à des textes relatifs au rituel de la veillée d'Osiris. Elles sont divisées en deux séries : l'une comprenant les douze heures du jour (travée de l'ouest), l'autre les douze heures de la nuit (travée de l'est). Nous subordonnerons nécessairement ici la disposition architecturale à l'ordre logique des tableaux¹.
